

The Last Scale You Will Ever Need

Chromatic

This is the “Chromatic Scale” for your flute. These 12 notes make up most of the notes you can play on your on your flute from its bass note to the octave above it. Keep in mind most Native American Flutes will play about 4 or more notes of the chromatic scale above this! This scale is basically “all the notes” and for this reason it is very handy to know how to play them. Having said this, the “Standard Scale” is the one which truly plays the “most authentic” sounding music and this scale is meant to help those of you wanting to play pop music or some other genre which requires more than the standard minor pentatonic scale has to offer. If I were your teacher and was giving you a test, this would definitely be extra credit!
